

Drunk uncle 'chopped up 18-month-old niece then roasted body parts in the oven' while looking after toddler for her mother

The Daily Mail

- Mother found her daughter after noticing strange smell coming from stove
- 'A fragment of the child's leg was also discovered near sink in the kitchen'
- Andrey Gadzhiev 'claims girl died when he pushed her and she fell on floor'

A drunk uncle chopped up his 18-month-old niece then roasted her body parts in an oven, police said today.

Andrey Gadzhiev's sister Elena Titova, 29, had left him caring for the toddler for 15 minutes while she visited a neighbour.

When she returned there was no sign of the child and her intoxicated brother could not explain what had happened to her.

Horrific: An 18-month-old girl (left) was chopped up by her drunk uncle then roasted her in this oven (right) while he was looking after the toddler for her mother, police have said

'Killer': Andrey Gadzhiev (pictured under blanket) 'showed no emotion when he admitted to killing the baby and putting her in the oven'

She searched the house in Oldonda village in eastern Siberia, but then noticed a strange smell from the stove.

Opening the hot oven, she discovered the roasting remains her daughter's body.

A fragment of the child's leg was also found near the sink in the kitchen.

More...

- 'Our pain and suffering is unimaginable': Family of toddler 'killed by nanny' speak of desperate sorrow as two-month campaign of abuse is revealed
- Eight-week-old baby dies at home after suffering a heart attack

Police arrested the man who 'without showing emotion admitted to killing the baby and putting her in the oven'.

Gadzhiev, 34, had 'pushed' the girl, causing her to fall on the floor, killing her, he claimed.

'I was trying to hide her body so I put her in the oven,' he told police.

Sick: Andrey Gadzhiev allegedly told police the girl died when she fell on the floor after he pushed her and he tried to cover his tracks by putting her in the oven

Ma
cabre: The toddler's mother searched the house (pictured) in Oldonda village in eastern Siberia, but then noticed a strange smell from the stove

Read

more: <http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-2267723/Mother-finds-dead-baby-daughter-roasting-oven-chopped-drunk-uncle.html#ixzz2Iv5FCbUz>

Follow us: @MailOnline on Twitter | DailyMail on Facebook