

Jims still fixing it

The Daily Chimp

Well here is a none story if ever I saw one... Sort of anyway.

Amanda 'gosh im lovely' Holden claims Jimmy savile chatted her up when she was 19... He didn't grab hold of her, or try to rape her. He just said he'd like to give her one.

No crime there, and since she was a nobody back then, I imagine at 19 and a wannabe, she didn't tell him to "fuck off out of it".

Mind you, she doesn't give much important detail out at all, preferring to dwell on trivialities.

However, there is a reason behind this story.

You see, like I wrote the other day, TPTB are trying to portray Savile as an old lech.

A bit naughty with the 14 and 15 yr olds but most of the women were over age... Bad but not rotten to the core.

Cue Amanda Holden, former blind date contestant – Mrs Les Dennis – an upgrade to the first bigger name that came along, who in this case was Neil Morrissey – bye bye Les, ya loser.

A field day for the press followed – but any publicity is good publicity – followed by a run of acting jobs.

Since she has no real talent, at least as far as I can see, I would imagine that she did what she had to do to get fame.

Lets just hope that Hip Hop Holden doesn't mention anything about Saviles penchant for rape... Rape by anyone else is fine, as long as Jim the jovial jester wasn't involved.

Now, the question is; did she really meet Savile or is she just another nonce protecting gate keeper?

I mean, as far as I can see she had no business being in Leeds when she claims she was.

I always get suspicious when there is a lack of detail.

She says that she was in hospital because she sliced her finger which needed stitching.

There is even details of the lack of pain she felt, yet no one thought to get a photo of the scarred finger.

Holden claims she was in Leeds with her boyfriend that day, yet he is only referred to by his initials, GB.

I find this strange because Holden was unheard of then, and I imagine so was he... He still is for that matter.

So why not refer to him as Gary or George or whatever his name was?

After cutting her finger, the story gets decidedly weirder. According to the Chimp:

'GB's brother (GB was my boyfriend at the time) was a doctor at Leeds General Infirmary, so he whisked me into hospital, stitched up the wound and went to get me some painkillers.

Are you having that? I'm not.

Still, perhaps she was born in Leeds or something?

Errr? No. Holden was actually born into a fairly well to do middle class family in Hampshire.

Her old man was a Naval Officer... Just saying.

When she was 16 the family moved to Bournemouth, where she stayed until she was 18 when she enrolled at Mountview, the prestigious performing arts college in Woodford Green, London.

I would imagine that once she'd enrolled that she lived in London being that its a fair hike between Bournemouth and Woodford Green... Its also a fair fucking hike from Woodford Green to Leeds, but obviously that isn't to say that she wasn't in West Yorkshire on the day in question.

However, this would have been 1990 and before she made her first ever TV appearance as a contestant on Blind Date the following year

After that, she did fuck all until 1994. Yet she makes mention twice in the article that she had heard rumours about Jimmy Savile having slept with – surprise, surprise – a 14 year old girl... Note the word 'slept' as opposed to raped'.

Now, I suppose that being at stage school she could have heard a rumour, but I have to tell you, I'm very sceptical.

After all, David Icke was at the BBC with Savile in the 1980's but didn't expose the sick fuck until 1995.

Anyway, as coincidence would have it, GB's brother Doctor B had stitched Holden's finger – no waiting in casualty for 3 or 4 hours for Amanda – and had fucked off to help himself to the drugs cabinet leaving Holden in a cubicle with the curtains drawn.

I am assuming that she was in the hospitals massive casualty department, with her 'heavily bandaged hand' to protect her finger, when Savile theatrically pulled back the curtain.

We know he had to open the curtain because Honest Holden mentions it twice.

Now, its undoubtedly true that Savile got away with murder whilst at his various hospitals, but I find it hard to believe that even he would be allowed to freely wander around casualty, willy nilly pulling back any curtain that took his fancy.

But what do I know.

Holden then says that Savile made a joke about her trying to commit suicide... Because slicing your finger was a common method of suicide in Leeds back in the late 1980's, early 1990's.

Moreover, Savile obviously couldn't come up with a better opening line, having only been in show business for 40 years at that stage.

So, having struck lucky by finding pretty 19 year old Amanda Holden in the cubicle as opposed to Poor Poorly Pete riddled with infected scabies scab, The DJ thought that he would capitalise on his good fortune and as such, came out with that suave chat up line that never fails: "Can I give you a gynaecological exam"?

Well, after my earlier doubts, I gotta say that it sounds perfectly plausible to me.

And, if she's telling the truth, so what?

A pretty 19 year old wannabe starlet desperate for fame, a rich old celebrity, no groping took place, just a lewd comment. Worse things happen at sea.

And at the end of the day, isn't that the kind of behaviour all egotistical rich old men are guilty of?

Seems Jim can fix it even from 6 foot under... Vile old cunt

Amanda Holden has revealed how Jimmy Savile tried to seduce her when she was a teenager being treated in hospital – telling her he wanted to 'give her one'.

The TV personality, 42, was just 19 when she met Savile at Leeds General Infirmary while she was being treated for a cut finger.

She told how the shamed Top Of The Pops presenter made a string of 'lame' jokes before offering to give her a gynaecological problem.

Surprise meeting: Holden had just had her finger stitched up at Leeds General Infirmary, pictured, when Savile drew back the curtain of her cubicle

In her autobiography she reveals: 'I was 19 when I accidentally sliced through the top of my finger. There was blood everywhere but I didn't really feel the pain.'

'GB's brother (GB was my boyfriend at the time) was a doctor at Leeds General Infirmary, so he whisked me into hospital, stitched up the wound and went to get me some painkillers.'

'All of a sudden, the curtain to my cubicle drew back and Jimmy Savile was standing in front of me!

'At that point, he was still regarded as a legendary fundraiser and philanthropist. He looked at my bandaged hand and made a lame joke about me attempting suicide. I was completely taken aback. Then he asked me, "Have you got any gynaecological problems?"

"No," I said, thinking it was a bit bizarre. He gave me a weird smile. "Then I can give you one!".'

'Bizarre': Holden, pictured in London last week, claims Savile asked her if she had a gynaecological problem – before offering to give her one Holden told how she later gossiped with friends about the incident – but admits she'd already heard other rumours about Savile.

She added: 'Knowing what we know now, it was a seedy thing to say to me, but I dined out on that "Jimmy Savile is a perv" story for years. The rumour even when I was 19 was that he'd slept with a 14-year-old.'

'Why no one did anything about it, I have no idea.'

Holden has also revealed in her new book how she was sexually assaulted by a famous comedian while married to Les Dennis.

The Britain's Got Talent judge claims she was cornered by the unnamed celebrity in a corridor at a public event.

But she says she kept the attack secret from her then-husband for fear that he would make a scene.

The attack took place more than a decade ago while the actress was trying to reconcile with Dennis after her affair with Men Behaving Badly star Neil Morrissey before the couple eventually split.

Holden writes in her autobiography: 'During our first tentative weeks at trying again, we went to an event together and on my way back from the loo I was cornered by a famous comedian, who tried to kiss me and put his hands in places they shouldn't have been.'

'I was scared and tried to push him away, making light of it so he would leave without causing a fuss, but he wasn't put off.'

'As I tried to fight him off, I caught sight of our reflection in a mirror. My body went limp, and I just stood there as he groped and nuzzled me, observing myself from afar.'

Holden, who is now married to music producer Chris Hughes, said the attack left her feeling 'cheap and utterly worthless'.

Ru
mours: Holden, who is a judge on Britain's Got Talent with Alesha Dixon, Simon Cowell and David Walliams, revealed she'd already heard rumours about Savile before her chance encounter with him at the hospital

Her latest revelations come as police continue to investigate allegations surrounding Savile's 60 year reign of abuse until he died aged 84 in 2011.

A report by senior CPS lawyer Alison Levitt, QC, revealed Savile raped 34 women and girls and sexually assaulted up to 450, including children as young as eight.

The findings have led to questions over the police investigation into Savile after several young girls came forward claiming they'd been abused by the broadcaster.

Former West Yorkshire Police Inspector Mick Starkey, 61, is now being investigated over claims he contacted Surrey Police before they interviewed Savile in 2009 and 'acted on behalf' of the DJ.

Meanwhile, it has emerged BBC chiefs face Lord Hall and Lord Patten will be grilled by MPs this week over an alleged 'cover-up' in the £3million inquiry into the Corporation's failure to expose the Jimmy Savile scandal.

It is expected the Culture, Media and Sport Select Committee will call up Lord Hall, the BBC's director-general since April, and Lord Patten, BBC Trust chairman, on Tuesday.

They will be asked about their refusal to investigate why key evidence was excluded from the Pollard Review – the report into Newsnight's axed expose of the disgraced DJ.
